1. Three square cement machine gun nests are located east of the town of Lastovo in the Zasi Bay. The projects are located at the edge of a forest approximately fifty meters above the sea level. The crew is housed in four fishermen huts in the bay.
2. Approximately ten anti-aircraft guns and five heavy coastal cannons are reportedly located on the Novi Hum height, south of the Zasi Bay.
3. Numerous anti-aircraft guns and gun emplacements for coastal batteries are located on mountain heights north-east of Portoroz. Work on the construction of these projects lasted three years. Large underground shelters and depots are being built in this sector, and it is rumored that a large underground field hospital is likewise under construction. Approach to this zone by unauthorized civilians is forbidden. The entire area west of Portoroz is very well fortified and work on fortifications is still in progress. The fortifications are well camouflaged, so that only a few artillery emplacements can be distinguished.
4. Punta Struga is particularly well fortified, and two large artillery bunkers are clearly discernible from the sea. Punta Velega Mora and the Duboka Bay are also being fortified. A number of underground depots and shelters have been built. Other construction projects are under way in the bay area, but a lesser number of them than in 1949.
5. Underground shelters and depots [redacted] at Sveti Petar are now being modernized and enlarged. A spare electric plant has allegedly been placed in one of these shelters. New roads leading to the various projects cover the entire island. The roads are not easily discernible from the coast.
